

As the Gater Sees It

By ERNIE MIGUEL

The refusal of the National Youth Administration to increase the N. Y. A. appropriation to San Francisco State comes as a not-so-easy-to-take blow right in the financial midriff of many a student here, where we have been waiting for several years for a sufficient allotment to put to work all the students who need such help to ease the burden of working their way through college. And with each increase in enrollment the problem grows more acute. . . *

One of the most reasonable suggestions for the relief of financially-distressed students is developed from the suggestion of Dr. Roy Cave that a placement bureau be started here for our liberal arts students . . . it being entirely feasible that such a bureau could take over the duties of an employment agency for part-time work to be given to undergraduate students. . . *

Prowlers about the campus at the basketball games Friday night went home with solemn vows never again to touch the demon rum used to steer assiduously away from diet of sauer-kraut and ice cream when they saw nine pair of shoes lined up on the table in the Annex A 9. Publications Office pro-tem, because quite remarkable shoes they were . . . each giving off an ethereal orchid glow in spite of the excess amount of darkness there was in the room. . . *

The same prowlers will probably return to hard drinking and indecent meals when they see those same shoes on the stage of Frederic Burk Auditorium tonight . . . but this time on the chorus of "Campus Moon" . . .

The phosphorescent moccasins are to be used in the Stewart and Twohig directed dancing chorus number, "Chain Partners and Dance," in which a long chain will also be featured in a realistic imitation of a glow-worm in action. . . *

A petition is being circulated among the students at State to the effect that the Gater should change its policy. The general idea seems to be that the Gater has been indulging in destructive criticism and dealing too much with personal arguments. We of the Gater would like to have our good critics' definition of destructive and constructive criticism explained to us. The Gater says that the Executive Board should change its policy . . . that's destructive . . . Our critics claim that we should change our policy . . . that's constructive.

* * *

Going the gentlemen from Sigma Pi Delta fraternity one better and presenting Santa Claus, the biggest beauty of them all, is Audrey Stewart and her Christmas Jinks Committee . . . not only will be jeans and bearded males be excluded from the affair, but the gym will become a sanctum sanc-torum for Stater students, with all outsiders going the way of jeans and cords. . .

Senior Photos For Franciscan Taken Last Time Today

Announcement that today is the last day that senior pictures will be taken on the campus for the 1939 Franciscan, was made yesterday by class editor of the yearbook, Constance Field.

Fisher's Studios have agreed to take pictures of seniors who failed to schedule a picture this week, at a later date. Seniors who will have their pictures taken today have been notified by post-box and there is a complete schedule on the wall near the Franciscan office window, Annex A 5.

"There are only a few organizations on the campus that have not had their group pictures taken for the Franciscan," states assistant editor Edward Pierce. "The presidents of those organizations are urged to contact Box 1042, 339, or the Franciscan office immediately."

Group pictures scheduled for today to be taken on the lawn near the Women's gymnasium are as follows:

Wednesday, December 7

12:15 German Club
12:30 P. E. ClubThursday, December 8
11:15 Bib and Tucker

January seniors who wish to re-serve a Franciscan are requested to contact Editor Jean Dooley, Box 339, during this week.

N.Y.A. REFUSES TO INCREASE ALLOTMENT

Refusal of the National Youth Administration to raise the allotment of San Francisco State's allotment was announced last Friday by Dean Mary A. Ward, dean of women.

Reason for rejection of State's application for a larger appropriation was attributed to similar applications received from colleges all over the country.

Under the present condition of N.Y.A. applications and appropriations at State, more women need the work than can be accommodated, according to Dean Ward.

The next period of employment starts on December 17 and continues until January 17 and will be only able to take care of present students, due to the shortage of funds.

The present employment period ends on December 17.

EXAMINATION NOTICE

Dr. Floyd Cave will give an examination in U. S. government at 11 o'clock Tuesday, December 13, in Room 201. Only those who have had special permission will be admitted.

'CAMPUS MOON' THRILLS THREE HUNDRED FRESHMAN CLASS PRESENTS PREMIER BEFORE PACKED HOUSE, ENDS RUN TONIGHT

"Campus Moon" left some three hundred awed spectators completely in the dark last night—but only for one number. The remainder of the show fairly dazzled the packed audience in the Frederic Burk Auditorium with an unexpectedly brilliant display of drama, comedy, song and dance.

Tonight a second capacity audience is scheduled to watch the curtain disappear at 8 p.m. and it too will be left in the dark for a few thrill jammed minutes while Audrey Stewart, Fran Twohig, Margy Greer, Kay Wildberger, Lois Towle, Betty Pierce, Bonny Eaden, Betty Fisher and Clary Bly perform their "chain ballet" in phosphorescent paint.

But light or dark, there will be a laugh on every grizzled Stater's pan as Lou Garcia's and Roland Ingraham's three act musical show unwinds itself. Side-splitting as it is, however, Campus Moon does not lack its moments of intense drama when Bernice Bianchi and Bud Chandler emotive before the spotlight and attempt to keep the dance revues and song hits from running away with the plot.

ROACH PLEASED

Reflecting the general consensus of opinion among the three hundred to view last night's premier production, class president Peggy Roach of the freshman class declared:

"Campus Moon even exceeded my expectations. It certainly has hit a new high in campus entertainment."

Luther Meyer, journalism instructor and noted San Francisco critic was among the many showering praise upon the Garcia-Ingraham musical hit. "The freshman class deserves to be complimented for its splendid piece of work in successfully producing and staging as intricate a show as Campus Moon," Meyer was quoted as saying.

FROSH COMPLIMENTED

Most of the seven songs featured in the show are sung by Chandler and Bianchi although the Keg Drainer's Quartet of Stein, Abbey, Fenneman and Dunn aired their vocal chords on a few.

Margie Furtado recreates her "How's About Muggin" sensation and goes into partnership with "Jitterbug" Stein in a couple of quite comical dance routines. Titles of other original songs used include: "Don't Ever Forget," "If You Care," "Here's To My Freedom," "Right For My Heart," "Campus Moon," and "Profs Ain't Human."

Tim Guiney, Director of Publicity for the production, said, "With the added polish the cast will have tomorrow night's performance will be even better than last night's."

The play has been in the rehearsal stages for only three weeks. The music, original efforts of Marge Furtado and Roland Ingraham, has been expertly arranged by Pete Rugolo, who handled the score for last year's "Character".

Margie Furtado, pictured above, not only portrays one of the leading "characters" in tonight's production, but collaborated with Roland Ingraham in writing the songs in the musical comedy.

CHASER MAKES ITS BOW MONDAY AS HUMOR MAGAZINE

Plans were completed last night to welcome CHASER, the newest of college comics, to the campus of the college. The new magazine, originally scheduled to appear today, will make its bow on Monday.

The delay will mean an increase in the size of the magazine. With the securing of national advertising contracts, the editors of CHASER added four pages to Volume one Number one, to make a total of twenty pages in the initial edition.

CHASER will present the serious as well as the cream of college wit. One of the features of the new magazine will be The Chaser's Personality of the Month. Will Connolly, veteran sports writer, will be presented in this role in the first issue.

FASHION DEPARTMENT

In addition to this feature, the new college magazine will have a special department devoted to college fashions. Edited by Sibyl Hutchinson, the new fashion pages will feature the outfits of co-eds as caught in the lens of Chaser's cameramen as well as detailing the style trends in college clothes.

From the pen of one of the college's best writers comes the amusing "On The Merry-Go-Round" to round out the list of monthly features. This department, written in a humorous vein, will be an unsigned contribution to the magazine. The personalities of the college have been caught by the facile pen of the writer. Each month, On The Merry-Go-Round will devote itself to chronicling the activities of various groups and personages.

FOUR PAGES ADDED

"We are sorry that we had to delay the first issue of CHASER," declared Jim Martin, editor, "but we felt that with the addition of four pages made possible by our national advertising contracts, would more than make up for the delay."

Sigma Alpha Eta Sponsors Rally For Scholarship

The rally Friday noon in the Women's Gym will be sponsored by the Sigma Alpha Eta fraternity, to stimulate interest in their men's scholarship, according to Vernon Rees, charter member of the frat.

SCHOLARSHIP AWARDED

Friday has been designated as Sigma Alpha Eta Day, and all members of the fraternity will be seen wearing carnations and the colors of the fraternity.

All men students are eligible to apply for the scholarship, providing they have a one point five grade point average. Applicants must be at least high sophomores at the time of applying, and have attended State for a year.

DEADLINE EXTENDED

The deadline for applications has been extended to Wednesday, December 14 at 4 o'clock.

Applications may be secured from the secretary of the Dean of the College. Applications may be filled out by proxy, according to Rees, and filed with Mrs. Randolph, secretary of Dean P. F. Valentine.

ORPHIC PASSES CENSOR, COMES OUT NEXT WEEK

Due to circumstances beyond control of the editors, the Orphic will be out during the week of December 12-16.

Because of various pressure groups outside the college, certain sections of the magazine have been deleted; this being "legislature" year and the public relations problem being even more acute.

The price is still to be ten cents and copies will be obtainable at the office of the Franciscan, with Jean Dooley making quick change.

The editor for this semester is Henry Evans.

The cover is an intriguing modernistic block design sculptured especially for the Orphic by Ruth Hutchinson. It is advised that persons desiring copies of the Orphic get them early because only a limited number of copies have been made up.

ART WORK EXHIBITED BY STATE STUDENT

Two lithographs and a water color by Teall Messer, a State student, are on exhibition in the San Francisco Museum of Arts in the Veteran's Building, and will be there for the next two weeks.

The works of Mr. Messer are now exhibited in a show given for the benefit of the Museum of Art.

One of the lithographs is one dealing with an unusual subject, a snow scene in California, entitled, "A Portrait of a House." One of the lithographs is a gift to Dr. P. F. Valentine, dean of the college. Mr. Messer plans to submit several paintings to the Exposition Exhibition during the Fair.

And Then Again . . .

By EDWARD F. PIERCE

CRITICS IN THE PAST They Remain Much The Same Today . . .

Go stick your head in a corner, take several others with you, spread the word among yourselves, speak frankly even if you blast yourself telling your own back, but when you emerge from the corner don't breathe a word of the going on to a soul. That seems to be the general way of doing things in too many cases.

Something dealing with an unusual subject appears in the Gater. Immediately there is a flurry of excitement. Interested remarks come from one or two students; reports of condemnation come from several; if the faculty, one or two of the faculty members spend part of a valuable class period expounding upon the bad taste of the article and the elements of the author. But the faculty doesn't make use of the privilege of space in the Gater to present open criticism or comment.

LID-LIFTER

Dear Lid-Lifter:

And in a slightly different vein the only person without the right to express an opinion or a right to think for himself is the best of all beauty. With this in mind we ought to stand ready with open arms for the individual who can come up and state an opinion and add to it the statement "I have thought about this."

There will be no progress if a man can only consider the cold truth in his own privacy, or in the presence of a few secretive compatriots. It must not be true that civilization has fought its way through the Dark Ages only to be swamped with undercurrents of unexpressed ideas, and with only a few valiant bubble popping to the surface.

A man has got to get an opinion off his chest. It's a relief to him and a crutch for progress. If his opinion proves generally acceptable it is surely worth while. If it does not prove generally acceptable its opposing elements may be used as a basis for critical judgment of the status quo. Perhaps there are so many cases where we don't welcome a new idea because we are afraid that it won't agree with us. Darkness and silence are always to some people.

BRAIN SURGERY, TRUE ADVENTURES TOLD BY ANDRO-SPHINX MEMBERS

The Puritans came to America in order to get away from intolerance in order to worship as they saw fit. But settled in their new home they saw to it that heretics were taken care of in a very adequate fashion. Galileo was cited before the Inquisition to recant his belief in the Copernican doctrine. John Wycliffe, whose criticism of the church gave rise to various Protestant faiths, was a heretic.

In some journal, there was this thought: The crank of the sixteenth century believed the sun revolved around the earth. The crank of the twentieth century believes the earth revolves around the sun. That's the way we often are now—unbearably intolerant, particularly of those things which we think we know more about than the peoples of former ages.

A prevalent thought seems to be that the Gater should take things easy until this period of reorganization and unusually sharp criticism has passed. That's like posing for a candid camera shot. Bring on the criticism, but first put patches over your spots. Do what you know the critics will like, right or wrong, until the crisis is past, then revert to the customary procedure of critical thinking. There's no better way to ball and chain improvement.

CAMPUS MOON

Shines Again Tonight

Well on the road to becoming a tradition, State's semi-annual original musical comedy was presented last night and will be shown again tonight in the Frederic Burk Auditorium. Entitled "Campus Moon," this semester's play is sponsored by the Freshman class.

To the authors and directors of the play, Roland Ingram and Lou Garcia, go the sincere editorial compliments of this newspaper. We know that you have done your job, and trust that your months of effort on the production will be duly appreciated by this student body. To the cast as well, the very best of luck for tonight's performance.

The officers and members of the Freshman class have reason to be proud of the part they have played in making possible this event. With such a class as this, a successful future for our college can be definitely assured.

Now it is up to our Associated Students. Your support of this all-student production is the one question left facing those involved in the production of the show. If you missed last night's dramatic effort, you can make up for it by attending tonight's performance.

It's up to you to see that the efforts of producers and players does not go to waste.

INTRAMURAL PROGRAM

A Tremendous Success

Heartening and gratifying indeed was the response of the men of San Francisco State College to the call for volunteers for the intramural football season. Even more satisfying was the sustained interest that prevailed throughout the complete run-off of the intramural season. We join with the losers in offering congratulations to the better teams, to the winners of the college title.

Furthermore, we believe this article will tend to antagonize the very people that would like to help us in our building campaign in the future. So, we recommend that such articles be not allowed to appear in the Gater again.

The importance of intramural athletics is a factor that should never be underestimated. In colleges of the East and Middle West especially has this been the case. The University of Notre Dame, consistent producers of championship football teams, places a great deal of emphasis on its intramural program. Not only has the university used this as a source of excellent varsity material, but even more important, it has operated under the theory that athletic competition is a highly desirable practice for the development of the mentally, physically, and socially well-adjusted individual.

For the first time State's intramural athletic program has gone over in big-time style. Thanks, indeed, are due the directors of the league during the past season, namely: Chili Shelley and Dan Farmer. Intramural basketball, just getting under way, should be as successful as the competitive pigskin entanglements.

We may be riding the crest of a new trend in inter-collegiate sport.

The Editor Says:

The maudlin sentimentality with which this institution has received a certain feminine student who arrived here from distant shores in a financially embarrassed state is something which gets our dander up. Contributions on the part of organized student and faculty groups are keeping this particular person who has refused to accept part-time employment in college. When we look at the time and effort spent by other students to financially enable themselves to attend college, we wonder just how long this situation is going to continue.

The letter in today's lid-lifter column, signed by six students in protest against Ed Pierce's column on religion is something which we take with a double dose of salt grains. Pierce's column is a defense of legitimate religion, not an attack upon it, as the "solemn six" charge. Further, their assertion that Pierce lacks the necessary background to write on religious subjects is a bit ridiculous. Since our Ed is the son of the Co-Pastor of the First Congregational Church. Lastly, the tone of the letter is rather annoying. It's obvious that the "solemn six" could do with a few lessons in public relations.

CO-ED'S CORNER

By CAROL CROUCH

We cannot help commenting on paper is no place to discuss controversial subjects of religion. It must of last week. Probably we seem to us that of all the problems should let it pass by as quickly as possible, but the feelings which cannot fail to be aroused by his the philosophies and propaganda of religion and morality. In these days of the rest of the Golden people pretend it is not important, or are they, as one person says here has said, "let them burn the lights out?" If we can get down to the solid group of morality by clearing away the quibbles which has been piled up for so long, why should these people feel outraged? If they have something to say on the other side, well and good. But simply to say that we have no right to talk about such a delicate subject seems a little on the dogmatic side.

Although we do not doubt that he didn't comprehend the meaning of Mr. Jost's remark, we can hardly forgive his printing it against the warnings of the rest of us. The remark was made to be laughed at and laughed off by a small group as a clever quip, and is neither the real philosophy of Mr. Jost nor a criteria of the group's moral standards.

Such ignorance of newspaper ethics should be harnessed. If it were the caliber of Mr. Monsees' morals that is to blame, we could forgive and demand a change but when it is simply that he doesn't know the difference, we cannot hope for a change. The responsibility and blame rests, of course, with the editor. We do not see how he could allow it to pass, unless he didn't read it.

Subtle jabs may be unwise, but outright malignancy is unforgivable.

As long as we are moralizing we may as well take up the case of another of our brother columnists. In this issue is printed a lid-lifter signed by six indignant people. Read it—then come back. Also recall Mr. Pierce's column of the former issue.

They say that a school

WHAT DO YOU THINK OF COMPULSORY MILITARY TRAINING AT COLLEGE?

BUD DECKER: I am not in favor of compulsory military training at college. However, I think it highly beneficial for the students of certain courses in military science and tactics were offered at college. These courses, so I think, should be elective.

BILL ABBEY, P. E. Major: Personally, I do not believe in compulsory military training. However, it is really a matter of one's own choice. If compulsory training were adopted at the colleges, the Pacifists would certainly have no feelings for such a course.

SOCRATES PANTAGES, Music Student: Compulsory military training at college is impractical because the students do not have the proper facilities to work with, plus the fact that in later life, a college student will not necessarily continue with the work. If such a training were conducted with the same rigid discipline as the army I think that it would greatly aid many students who fall into the category of 'book worms'. It would definitely build character and make a softie a man. It might even develop a few good football players.

MARY MCLOUD, Lower Division: Sure! Military training at college should be adopted because it will give all male students the fundamentals of militarism. This will be to the advantage of the men.

Mr. Miguel, editor of some sort or another of this semi-weedy news dispenser, and columnist plus ultra, mentioned in Friday's edition of the growing Greek alphabet on the campus. Newest of the new is the men's honorary Physical Education fraternity, Phi Epsilon Mu, the brain child of one Mr. Claude "Acme" (plug) Hanrahan, and a one Mr. William "Tiny" Putte. This organization was started to foster the ideals and aims of P. E. and to help in getting P. E. men to come to talk to the organization in helping the members along the adjustment the members will have to make when they enter the teaching field. This is one of the best ideas to happen at this campus in many a moon.

Those men in the organization at present will benefit by constructive criticism and professional adjustment as men in the field are offering them. Hints on coaching, teacher-principal relationships and the like will greatly aid our P. E. men when embarking on the threshold of the teaching field proper.

Speakers such as "Slip" Madigan, coach of St. Mary's, "Stub" Allison of California, and "Tiny" Thornhill of Stanford are anticipated. Dick Boyle, new coach at State, is the Faculty Sponsor, and should aid greatly in the selection and procuring of speakers.

Along comes the Beta Pi Sigma newly founded science club, is the product of a one Mr. Alexis Ivan etc. Schellokoff, Esq. Alexis Ivan etc., president of Beta Pi Sigma, visited his folks this summer in Harbin, Manchukuo and narrowly escaped with his life while crossing the Japan Sea. No doubt Alexis Ivan etc. started the club to foster the preservation of his life. But that a science club is started is no doubt a great boon to the students of State. Maybe at last Einstein's theory of relativity will be explained in simple layman terms. However, science is the basis of our modern life, and keeping abreast with it is a trying task to do for one's self, while Beta Pi Sigma offers the explanations in concise, simple terms for the benefit of every student.

One of the new clubs to appear in the near future is the State Flying Club. This club will endeavor to bring speakers and well known pilots to give discourses on the many and interesting topics of flying. There are at present about ten students who are taking lessons, and one of these, Walt Lowell, has just a few more minutes to log before he solos. Ah, yes, State is on the up-climb.

ITALIAN CLUB DRIVES FOR MEMBERS

A drive for new members is now being waged by the Italian Club. Anyone interested in joining this organization are asked to contact Victor Vari, president of the club.

PHI LAMBDA CHI HOLDS XMAS PARTY

The annual Phi Lambda Chi Christmas Party will be held at the sorority house this Saturday night at 8 p.m., according to Betty Zech, publicity chairman.

The affair will be semi-formal. Committees under the direction of Lois Towle, general chairman, are Invitations, Gloria Barusch; Decorations, Eleanor Plas, chairman, Adele Hopper, Mary MacKenzie; Refreshments, Lorna Olsen, chairman, and Victoria Regier; Publicity, Betty Zech.

A Christmas theme will prevail at the party, with games, cards, roulette, and dancing being featured. Refreshments will be served.

MUSIC FEDERATION NOMINATES OFFICERS

Nominations for officers are now open, according to Adrian Newman, president of the Music Federation.

All officers must be upperclassmen with at least a "C" average, and the office of vice-president must be a woman student.

Petitions for each candidate must have 25 signatures, with no duplicate signatures being accepted.

Petitions may be given to any of the present Federation officers, and must be in by December 7 at the latest.

Hostesses are Betsy Brown, chairman, Gloria Barusch, Eleanor Plas, Adele Hopper, Mary MacKenzie, Lorna Olsen, Victoria Regier, Betty Zech, and Lois Towle.

LOS LAZARILLOS CLUB HONORS CAMPUS QUEEN HOLDS FOLK DANCE

Frances Kelleher, State Beauty Queen, will have a noon day dance held in her honor by Los Lazarillos, the organization that sponsored her in the Sigma Pi Sigma Queen contest. It will be given within the next two weeks.

A skating party will be held the latter end of this week, the exact date not yet determined upon by Sarita Canedo, president of the club.

ITALIAN CLUB EATS OUT NEXT WEDNESDAY

An Italian Club dinner for past and present students of the San Francisco State Italian classes will be held December 14, at 5:30 p.m. at Veneto's Restaurant, 387 Bay Street.

The sign-up is outside of office 4 in Annex A.

ASSOCIATED WOMEN HOLD ANOTHER TEA

Third of the series of A. W. S. Teas was held on Tuesday, December 6, from four to six o'clock, in the Activities Room. The purpose of these Teas are to acquaint the lower division with the Faculty.

Rose Perlman is the refreshment chairman, and Elsie Crosthwaite, the hostess chairman. The people were admitted by invitation only.

BRUSH 'N PALETTE HONORS CAMPUS QUEEN HOLDS FOLK DANCE

A folk dance festival sponsored by the Brush 'n Palette Club will be given on December 9, at 8:30 o'clock, in Frederic Burk Auditorium.

There are only seventy-five tickets to be sold to allow all those who attend, to have an equal chance to learn several dances of the European country folks. The price of the ticket, twenty-five cents, includes refreshments.

Del Delanoy, chairman of the committee, and the master of ceremonies for the evening, promises all who enjoy dancing, that they'll have fun and lots of it.

Arthur Murray, the famous New York and dancing instructor will teach the Lambeth Walk from records.

ALPHA CHI EPSILON PLANS BRIDGE PARTY

Activities for the remainder of the semester was the main order of business at the meeting of Alpha Chi Epsilon last Thursday night.

A telephone bridge party has been planned for Thursday, December 5, with a 25 cent charge for every corner.

Another alligator pin sale will be held on December 12, with Ella Marie Slane in charge of the sale of the 15 cent trinkets. The proceeds from the pins and the bridge party will be used to buy a gift for the Frederic Burk Kindergarten-Primary department.
